Course Description, Design, and Goals: English 2009G is a writing intensive course designed to allow you to respond in a variety of ways to literary representations of race, age, and gender. In order to improve our analytical skills, we will spend class time discussing the assigned readings and the issues they raise. We will also write in response to the readings on a regular basis, both in class and out of class. The goal is to improve, with practice, our reading and thinking skills and to approach an understanding of how the concepts of race, age, and gender function in the works of several well-known writers.

Texts: Chopin, The Awakening
Hardy, Tess of the D’Urbervilles
Hughes, The Big Sea
_____ , The Collected Poems of Langston Hughes
Hurston, Their Eyes Were Watching God
Shakespeare, King Lear

Requirements and Grading:
1) completion of two essays (minimum 750 words each), one of which requires use of secondary sources – 30%
2) two exams – 30%
3) weekly in-class written responses to assigned readings – 30%
4) participation in class discussions of the assigned readings – 10%

(You must complete successfully all the work listed above to pass the course.)

Course Policies: I do not accept late papers without a valid excuse. If you have a problem completing an assignment, speak to me before it is due. Sometimes even a brief conversation can clear up difficulties.

You cannot make up missed in-class writing assignments.

Attendance at all class meetings is expected, but not required. In-class writing assignments are not announced, and cannot be made up.
This is a writing-intensive course. You may submit an essay from the class for your EWP. For more information, visit the assessment website: http://www.eiu.edu/~assess.
