FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CHARLESTON, IL--The Army's top anti-terrorism fighter will meet with Federal, state and local law enforcement officers following a public address at Eastern Illinois University on Tuesday, March 20.

Maj. Gen. Eugene R. Cromartie will speak at 7:30 p.m. in the Buzzard Building Auditorium. The "informal workshop" after the address will be limited to officers, according to a Political Science Department spokesman.

Among officials scheduled to attend the workshop, according to the spokesman, are Laimutis Nargelenas, Illinois State Police Superintendent; William Doster, Director of the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation; and Joseph Ondrula, Special Agent in Charge, Springfield Office, FBI.

Cromartie, who commands the Army's Criminal Investigation Command, will discuss "Coping With Terrorism in the Military, Worldwide" at the public lecture. There is no admission charge.
