Course Overview: In this honors humanities course, we will be reading literature—both fiction and non-fiction—that represents “life-as-journey.” As characters move towards their final destination—often some kind of home—they endure various tests. Thus, in addition to focusing on how these stories of “faith, survival, and progress” are told, we will also be studying what sustains an individual through these trials.

One objective of this course is to develop further a critical appreciation of and a confidence in reading and discussing literature and the ways literature speaks of and to the human condition. Furthermore, in this course, you will have many opportunities for extending and enhancing skills in reading, writing, and speaking in general, in ways that will benefit you throughout your University career, and, indeed, your life.

Please note that this class is DISCUSSION-DRIVEN. This means that there is an expectation that each student will be fully prepared for each meeting having read and thought about the text assigned for the day and able to initiate or contribute to discussion with relevant and meaningful questions or comments that indicate a serious effort to grapple with the readings and the questions that frame this course.

Texts:

- Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie’s Purple Hibiscus
- Charlotte Bronte’s Jane Eyre
- John Bunyan’s Pilgrim’s Progress
- Frederick Douglass’ Narrative of the Life of Frederick Douglass, a slave.
- Yann Martel’s Life of Pi
- Mary Doria Russell’s The Sparrow.

Course Packet

Please note: You will also need a College Level Dictionary to succeed in this course.
Course Assignments: To achieve the objectives described above students will need to keep up with the rigorous reading schedule and actively participate in the class discussion. The following assignments will foster the active engagement necessary to make this a productive and exciting learning experience.

I. Exams and Quizzes:
   *There will be a mid-term (15%) and a final examination (20%). I reserve the right to give pop quizzes as warranted if I sense students are not keeping up with their readings.

II. Papers:
   *Two essays based on the readings (15% each)

III. Extending Your Map: (15%):
The word "university" carries with it the idea that part of your education includes an exploration of the universe, that is, the world around you. This course "Literature and Human Values" offers you the opportunity to gain credit for participating in activities in ways that stretch you intellectually, politically, personally. For this assignment you are encouraged to go to an event or performance, a lecture, a concert that in some way that extends you beyond what you have previously experienced. Thus for example, most of you have been to movies or concerts but maybe you have never watched an "art film" or listened to classical music or attended a ballet. I would like you to do things you would not ordinarily do, I would like each one of your personal field trips to be different. Here are some ideas 1) go to an art museum and look at an exhibit then focus on one particular painting for 15 minutes. 2) go to an ethnic restaurant that serves food other than Mexican, Chinese, Italian, or any other food you are familiar with. Pay attention to the ambience, décor, what you order, how it tastes, etc. 3) do something different; for example give blood, register to vote, volunteer in the community NOT because your fraternity or sorority has mandated that you do it but for its own sake. 4) attend a lecture/presentation in a field that is different from the one you are studying in. 5) other—clear with me.

The experience itself is part one of this assignment. Part two is writing it up in a thoughtful, well-crafted way that clearly describes the experience itself and explains in what ways this experience has taken you beyond your usual realm of experience, and finally reflects on this experience in relation to something we have discussed in class. This paper should be typed, carefully proofread and its length should run 2 to 3 pages. You will write three of these papers.

IV. Miscellaneous assignments, worksheets etc. designed to promote careful reading and intelligent discussion. (10%).

V. Film Review based on one of the movies listed at the end of the syllabus. (10%)

Attendance Policy: You may miss 2 classes no questions asked, no excuses needed. After 2 classes your grade will drop one level. For example, if you were earning a B, you would be dropped to C. If you miss 3 or more classes you will receive a failing grade for this class. This means you will probably not want to squander your allowable absences but save them for when you need them.
