For Immediate Release:

MARLOW RECEIVES SERVICE RECOGNITION AWARD

CHARLESTON – Nancy Marlow, professor of marketing, recently received Eastern Illinois University's School of Business' Service Recognition Award.

This award is presented to the professor that has demonstrated excellent service to the School of Business through service to the university, college, school, his/her business discipline and the community during 1999.

In addition to serving as chair of Eastern's School of Business' Curriculum Committee for the past two years, Marlow also has sat on the steering and personnel committees and served as discipline unit coordinator for marketing. She serves on the Faculty Senate and has served as a sponsor of the Pink Panthers since 1988.

In addition, she is completing her second term on the Board of Visitors for the U.S. Army War College in Carlisle Barracks, Pa., and serves as Eastern's representative to the Illinois Board of Higher Education's Faculty Advisory Committee.

Marlow, who joined Eastern's staff in 1985, received both her bachelor's in business education and master's degree in English from EIU . She received both a master's and doctorate in business administration from Mississippi State University, Starkville, Miss.
