For Immediate Release:

CHAD MOUTRAY RETURNS TO ALMA MATER AS EXECUTIVE-IN-RESIDENCE

CHARLESTON – Chad Moutray, an Eastern Illinois University alumnus now working for the Small Business Administration in Washington, D.C., will return to his alma mater next week as an executive-in-residence at the School of Business.

As part of his activities during his two-day visit, he will present a program at 7 p.m. Monday in Roberson Auditorium, located in Lumpkin Hall. The event is open to the public at no charge.

Moutray, who once resided in Coles County, serves as chief economist and director of the Office of Economic Research within the Office of Advocacy. As such, he reports directly to the office's chief counsel, a presidential appointee confirmed by the U.S. Senate.

Moutray's duties include responsibility for the development and administration of the economic research agenda as it relates to the role that small businesses play in the economy and policy-relevant issues that are central to them. He also supervises six internal economists, while maintaining a $1.1 million external research budget for procurement purposes.

Previously, Moutray served as dean of Robert Morris College's School of Business Administration.
