FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CHARLESTON, IL--Eastern Illinois University's jazz ensembles will present a concert of big band music in Dvorak Concert Hall on Thursday, Nov. 17 at 7:30 p.m.

Three bands will participate. The Jazz Lab Band is led by Gene Doi, graduate assistant. The Monday-Wednesday Band and the EIU Jazz Ensemble are led by Allan Horney, director of jazz activities.

The Monday-Wednesday Band will begin the concert with such tunes as Duke Ellington's "Satin Doll" and the Steely Dan hit "Home At Last." The Lab Band will perform Dee Barton's arrangement of "Here's That Rainy Day," featuring the trombone section, and "Magic Flea" by the Count Basie Band.

The program will close with the Jazz Ensemble presenting two new student arrangements, "The More I See You" by Ron Nimmer and "My Favorite Things" by tenor saxaphonist Kurt Anderson. This will be the first performance of both pieces. Also featured is Doi doing Rob McConnel's "Things Are Getting Better" and Dizzy Gillespie's "Manteca."

Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.
