FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CHARLESTON, IL--Students from two high schools have advanced to statewide competition in the fifth annual TEAMS (test of engineering aptitude, mathematics and science) as the result of a regional contest at Eastern Illinois University.

The first place team for schools with enrollments of more than 750 was Decatur-MacArthur. Newton's team captured first place among smaller school entries.

Finishing in order behind MacArthur were Champaign-Centennial and Paris. The number two and third place schools behind Newton were Monticello and Oakwood.

Individual winners were Bob Fricke, Monticello, graphics; Andy Phillips, Champaign-Centennial, both mathematics and physics; Karen Boyer, Bismark-Henning, biology; Cheryl Bartels, Champaign-Centennial, English; and Dane Elliott, Paris, chemistry.

The competition at the University of Illinois will be on March 18. The winning teams automatically advance. Individual winners advancing will be selected from among all regional individual winners.
