FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

INVITED TO LECTURE IN MOSCOW

CHARLESTON, IL--The Russian Economics Academy in Moscow has invited professors Stephen Payne and Foster Rinefort from Eastern Illinois University's Lumpkin College of Business to give a series of lectures at the academy June 2-12.

They are among a select group of American educators and consultants who have been invited to speak to faculty, students and visiting enterprise managers at the academy's Moscow Managers Training Institute.

Payne, Bertrand P. Holley Distinguished Professor of Social Responsibility in Business, will discuss business ethics, and Rinefort, associate professor of management/marketing, will lecture on business performance.

They will also explore opportunities for cooperative projects between Eastern and the Moscow institute.

LECTURE IN MOSCOW

Payne has served as a researcher and consultant on issues of professional and organizational ethics. He has also co-edited a book and written many articles on ethics topics in business journals.

Rinefort has researched the areas of cost-benefit analysis and safety and health, and recently published an article on "Human Resource Management in the Former Soviet Union," in the Midwest Society for Human Resources/Industrial Relations Proceedings.
