Upon her selection, Camp said, "I was surprised and honored to be chosen top employee. The recognition program is positive reinforcement for employees. It reconfirms that we are doing a good job for the university."

She oversees office operations, assists in implementing institutional policies and procedures and communicates information to the vice president's staff in 20 major areas of the university.

She also responds to student and public queries concerning student regulations, activities and services.

Williams said, "Mrs. Camp is an exceedingly competent professional and an excellent person. It is with enthusiasm that I endorse her selection as Employee of the Month."

Camp believes that her positive attitude and desire to help others have made her successful in her job. "I like to direct people to the right source of information and to make their association with Eastern a pleasant one."

She and her husband, Don W., also farm in rural Paris. Their son, James, and daughter-in-law, Janet, are former Charleston residents who now reside in Tulsa, Oklahoma, with their two children, Jeanne and Jason.
