MOUTRAY HONORED

CHARLESTON, IL.--Eastern Illinois University senior Ann Moutray of Arcola (seated left) was among four Eastern students recently honored for completing a minority internship program sponsored by the Illinois Board of Governors of State Colleges and Universities, Eastern's governing board.

The internship program gives students practical job experience, while completing their college degrees, and often results in permanent employment at the internship agency.

Moutray, who is enrolled in Eastern's Board of Governors Bachelor of Arts Degree Program, completed her internship at Illinois Consolidated Telephone Company in Mattoon.

She is studying journalism and speech communication at Eastern and was a 1989 recipient of the Journalism Grant-in-Aid Award.

Moutray graduated from Parkland College in 1988 with a Liberal Arts Associate Degree.

She and her husband, Michael, have two children, David and Christina.
