

DRESS REHEARSAL. Randy Arney (left) and Anne Shapland play the roles of "John Buchanan, Jr." and "Alma Winemiller" during dress rehearsal of "Summer and Smoke," a Tennessee Williams drama, which runs this Saturday and next weekend in the Fine Arts Theatre.

Town Crier Staff Photo

'Summer and Smoke' now underway on EIU campus

Compiled From News Releases

"Summer and Smoke," drama by Tennessee Williams, will be presented at Eastern Illinois University on Nov. 14, 15, 21, 22 and 23 by the Theatre Arts Department.

The drama revolves around the prematurely spinsterish Alma Winemiller and her pursuit of a rakish young man she has loved since childhood.

Alma, the daughter of a southern Episcopalian minister and a half demented mother, spends her time giving voice lessons and making prudish bids for Johnny Buchanan's affections. John, however, finds her too prim and proper and mocks her severely.

"Summer and Smoke" will be performed in the Fine Arts Theatre on Nov. 14, 15, 21 and 22 at 8 p.m. with a matinee at 2 p.m. on Nov. 23.

Tickets may be purchased at the Fine Arts Ticket Office for $2.50 adults, $1.50 for youth and $1 for Eastern students.

charleston town crier
a division of fmh publications

phone 345-3761
except thursdays and fridays
p. o. box 127
charleston, illinois 61920

steven a. file
editor and publisher

published weekly
on saturdays

circulated free to charleston area residences

not responsible for unsolicited materials
submitted for publication

Yule cool it.