The plan

To demonstrate clarity and mechanical knowledge in writing. (Mechanics and Clarity)
Student shall revise their papers until they are clean of mechanical errors and readable.

To demonstrate how to write critically and analytically (Critical Thinking)
Learning to read fiction, poetry and drama closely and thoroughly.

To become familiar with literary style. (Literary Criticism)
We will examine different "tools" to analyze literature.

To become familiar with literary genres and poetic form. (Literary Genres)
We will examine poetry and short stories, old and new, from different genres.

To become familiar with a significant author. (About the Author)
Students will examine the impact writers' life may or may not have on their work.

To utilize sources to support evidence. (Sources)
Students will identify and employ sources to support their main theses. These shall be formatted in MLA style.

Course Name: ENG-1002G
Course Description: Composition and Literature

Required Textbooks/materials

- Griffith, Kelley. Writing Essays about Literature
- Fowler. The Little, Brown Handbook

The course description

In English 1002G (Composition and Literature) you will take the next step from 1001G toward developing your writing, reading and analytical skills. We will read works of literature—poetry, fiction, drama, some essays, perhaps—then, after studying different ways to analyze them, we will dig deeper, learn how to talk and write intelligibly about them.

In this course you must take a final exam

The course requirements

Introduction: First things first, though. You need to know what I expect from you. We will submit only paper copies of your responses and papers. I may ask, however, that you submit your essay via email, your EIU account only. Requirements: If I do request it, use Microsoft Word exclusively as your word processing program, and it is possible because the library and Triad have computers available with MSWord installed. Submit files in Word's default format (.doc or .docx). And, I will NOT ACCEPT essays pasted into the message window of the e-mail.

More requirements

Requirements: Read read read read read ... write write write write write --we will do both. Perhaps not your favorite things, not what you wanted but perhaps expected to hear. You must do both to become a competent writer. And in this class those who flex their creative muscle, do the work, and participate in class discussions will be rewarded with good grades.

Policies

The policy information

The academic policy on plagiarism

Plagiarism. Don’t do it. Why? Because you could get hit with sanctions ranging from a failing grade to expulsion from the University, whose policy reads as follows:

Any teacher who discovers an act of plagiarism—“The appropriation or imitation of language, ideas and/or thoughts of another author, and representation of them as one’s original work” (Random House Dictionary of the English Language)—has the right and the responsibility to impose upon the guilty student an appropriate penalty, up to and including immediate assignment of a grade of F for the course, and to report the incident to the Judicial Affairs Office. Respect for the work of others should encompass all formats, including print, electronic, and oral sources.

The course attendance policy

Introduction: Be present. To gain full benefit from the class, you must be present. I have established a liberal attendance policy that follows.
Additional information: The class attendance policy: If you miss three classes (unexcused), you cannot earn an A, four classes, you cannot earn a B, five classes will earn you no higher than a C, more than five unexcused absences will give you a "non-credit" and you will have to retake the course. If you miss an in-class assignment or fail to turn in an assignment on time, the only way you can make it up is to present to me an excuse from the university’s Health Service, a physician, or proof that you will or have attended a university-sanctioned event.

The conferences

Peer editing and individual conferences: You may be required to Peer Edit your classmates’ work. Peer editing is not graded, but if you do not peer edit, you will not have the benefit of an extra set of "eyes," and I assure you the quality of your final product will suffer immensely.

Individual conferences and/or team workshops: You will also be required to attend at least two conferences with me. We may add a group conference, in the form of team workshops. These will be scheduled ahead of time. The individual conferences will last 20 to 30 minutes, depending on schedules. During conference weeks, we will watch movies relevant to course material. I will take attendance. If you fail to keep your appointment, you will be listed absent for one class period (see policy on absences).

The schedule

(Remember, anything on the syllabus is subject to change, so check WebCT daily for updates)

The stories

Part I:
On short fiction. You will need to bring the book (Kennedy, Gioia) to class each day. Be prepared to discuss. (Remember, anything on the syllabus is subject to change, so check WebCT daily for updates.)

Week 1 Jan. 10 -- We will talk about the syllabus and WebCT this week. We will also begin reading stories (Kennedy), the titles to be announced (See Course Content page for reading and other assignments.)
Literary Terms Study Sheet: Do this first!

Find the Literary Terms Study Sheet on the Content Page. Use your textbooks to define the terms, which you will need to know for a deeper understanding of the material we cover. Bring your book, Literature, to class each day: you cannot participate in discussion without it.

It looks like this:

Do this First: Comp II Literary terms study sheet
Use your books to find definitions to these terms. You will need to know their definitions to help you understand our discussions over the semester.

Once a week, I will post the next week's assignments in the Announcement forum under Course Tools

The poetry

Part II:
Literature (Kennedy, Gioia). Bring your book to class each day. Read all poems carefully.

The plays

Part III
On Drama - We will read one or two plays from Kennedy (Remember, anything on the syllabus is subject to change, so check WebCT daily for updates.)

The assignments: Essays/Responses

Format
All essays, whether short responses or longer literary essays, MUST conform to the MLA format. This means they should be formatted on the page correctly and all MLA conventions must be followed. For example, find out when it is appropriate to use digits for numbers and when to spell out the numbers. (I suggest you seek guidance... on the latest MLA format at Purdue University's Online Writing Lab, your text book (Kennedy) or The Little, Brown Handbook.
You must learn how to format the first page, subsequent pages and how to set up the Works Cited page. Do NOT use a cover page.
I'LL DEDUCT UP TO 10 PERCENT OF TOTAL POSSIBLE GRADE FOR FORMATTING ERRORS.

The responses
Short Essays : You must carefully read each assignment—short stories, poems, plays. To make sure you are understanding the material, we will write a number of responses, instead of fewer, longish essays. In these responses, you will answer a question or questions over a reading or readings. I will announce details as we progress through the semester. Again, they must follow MLA format. They must follow the principles of good writing—comprehensive content, attention to audience, clarity, organization, correct grammar, spelling and punctuation and so on. They will be worth five points each.
Quizzes : Depending on your participation in class discussion, I may administer unannounced quizzes. Quizzes will help determine that you are reading closely. They will consist of 10 multiple choice or true/false questions worth one-half point each for five points total.
Reading : To understand the material, you must read the assignments carefully. I suggest reading each twice. The first time through, read for the enjoyment of the story, poem or play. Read without pausing, questioning, analyzing or making any judgment on the work of literature. The second time, begin to ask yourself questions about the content. For example, you could questions about characters, plot, setting, language and other aspects. We will discuss various approaches to gain deeper understanding of literature.

The team presentation
Presentation : I will ask you to form teams of no more than six or no less than three members. We will use collaboration in class to analyze works of literature and to develop a team presentation. The Team will decide what work of literature you will present to the class. More on this later. They will count 10 points of the total 100 possible for the class.

The final paper
Final paper : You will write a six-page literary essay, including Works Cited page, from a list of topics I will distribute early in the semester. The essay must be researched and include five sources. We will talk more about details of the essays and the source requirement later. As the culmination of our classwork and a measure of what you have taken from the course, your final paper will be worth 30 points.
This could take the form of an essay, in-class essay questions or other project. I will seek your input to help determine what form might best meet your needs. This class is yours, too. However, I will make the final decision. The midterm will be worth 20 points.

The final exam

Final: This course requires you to take a final exam. The final will NOT be comprehensive. Instead, it will focus on the drama section of 1002. It will be worth 20 points, or one-fifth of your total grade.

Grades

The grades

You will write four response papers of no more than 300 words each (which equals a typed, double-spaced, 12 point, Times New Roman typeface, page with one-inch margins all round) on selected readings, a four-page midterm paper (may take the form of an essay exam), and a final eight-page research paper. You will also take a final exam, date to be announced. And, if you have not already done so, you will required to enter one of your papers into the University's Electronic Writing Portfolio. More on that later.

Point totals: Grades will computed as follows:

- Four response papers/quizzes = 5 points each for 20 points possible.
- One team presentations = 10 points each for 10 points possible.
- Midterm paper (may take the form of an essay exam) = 20 points
- Final exam (WebCT) — Multiple choice, short answer, true/false = 20 points
- Final paper = four to six-page research paper with at least four sources = 30 points

100 points possible
