The plan

The texts

The course

In English 1002G (Composition and Literature) you will take the next step from 1001G toward developing your writing/reading skills. We'll read works of literature—poetry, fiction, drama, some essays, perhaps—then, after studying different ways to analyze them, we'll dig deeper, learn how to talk and write intelligibly about them.

 In this course you must take a final exam. ***

The requirements

First things first, though. You need to know what I expect from you. You must establish an e-mail account, either through EIU or commercial site such as Yahoo or Hot Mail. So that I have your e-mail on file in my system, everyone MUST e-mail me at cfwef@eiu.edu the first week of class. Include your NAME AND COURSE/SECTION in the subject box, and it would be helpful, though not required, to include your phone number in the text message. Also in the text box, write what section you’re in. We’ll use e-mail extensively to monitor the progress of your essays and to submit them. And I want to minimize the paper we pass back and forth. It’s good to for you to utilize technology and get expeditious feedback; good for me because I don’t have to carry around a whole forest’s worth of paper, and good for the environment.

BUT you must send your papers correctly for this to work; IF NOT, I’LL REJECT THEM WITHOUT LOOKING AT THEM. First, as mentioned above, include name and course/section number in the subject and the body of the message. Next, use Microsoft Word, if at all possible, as your word processing program, and it is possible because the library and Triad have computers available with MSWord installed. Then save your files in either Word’s default format (.doc) or in Rich Text Format (.rtf) if you must use another WP program, which you shouldn’t need to. If you question the format, look at the suffix of the file. It should read xxxx.rtf or xxxx.doc. I will no longer accept essays pasted into the message window of the e-mail. Doing so wrecks the format of your essay, making it difficult to read. After you’ve saved your paper in the appropriate format, ATTACH it to the e-mail. We’ll discuss this further, but it’s very easy.

Read read read read read write write write write. Perhaps not your favorite words, not what you wanted but perhaps expected to hear. You must do both to become a competent writer. And in this class those who flex their creative muscle, do the work, and participate in class discussions will be rewarded with good grades.

The grades

You will write five response papers of no more than 300 words each (which equals a typed, double-spaced, 12 point, Times New Roman typeface, page with one-inch margins all round) on selected readings, a four-page midterm paper (may take the form of an essay exam), and a final eight-page research paper. You will also take a final exam, date to be announced.

Point totals: Grades will be computed as follows:
- Five response papers = 20 points each for 100 points possible.
- Midterm paper (may take the form of an essay exam) = 100 points
- Final exam—Multiple choice, short answer, true/false, essay = 100 points
- Final paper = eight to nine page research paper = 200 points

If you come to class, do the writing and reading, paying attention to the concepts of good writing, attend conferences, participate in discussions, utilize all resources available to you (e.g., The Writing Center), you should have no problem passing this course with at least a C.

The essays

All essays MUST conform to the MLA format. This means they should be formatted on the page correctly and all conventions must be followed. For example, find out when it’s appropriate to use numerals for numbers and when to spell them out. Know how to format the first page and subsequent pages and how to set up the Works Cited page, and know NOT to use a cover page.
The conferences

You will be required to meet with your classmates and with me. BE THERE.

The class attendance policy

If you miss more than three classes, your final grade will fall by one grade for each day missed over three. For example, if you earn an A but miss four days, your grade will fall to a B. five days and your grade will fall to a C.

If you miss an in-class assignment or fail to turn in an assignment on time, the only way you can make it up is to present to me an excuse from the university’s Health Service, a physician, or proof that you will or have attended a university-sanctioned event.

The worst thing

☑️Plagiarism. Don’t do it. Why? Because you could get hit with sanctions ranging from a failing grade to expulsion from the university, whose policy reads as follows:

> Any teacher who discovers an act of plagiarism—“The appropriation or imitation of language, ideas and/or thoughts of another author, and representation of them as one’s original work” (Random House Dictionary of the English Language)—has the right and the responsibility to impose upon the guilty student an appropriate penalty, up to and including immediate assignment of a grade of F for the course, and to report the incident to the Judicial Affairs Office. Respect for the work of others should encompass all formats, including print, electronic, and oral sources.

Don’t do this. Please don’t do this. If you even suspect that you may be on the verge of plagiarism, see me.

Other business

As members of a rapidly developing, hi-tech society, we’ll utilize the ETIC environment every opportunity to learn about how technology can help (or not help) you write and communicate better. One aspect of that will be to use the e-mail to transfer papers as much as possible, while realizing the limitations and glitches that occur in the system.

On disabilities:

If you have a documented disability and wish to receive academic accommodations, please contact the Office of Disability Services (581-6583) as soon as possible.

Should you be in this class?

If you received an NC in 1001G, you must see me after the first class. You must successfully pass 1001G before you enroll in 1002G.
The Electronic Writing Portfolio
You must submit an essay from this course or from the previous 1001G class for inclusion into your EWP. This is mandatory. More on this later. I’ll schedule a time to look closer at it later on in the semester.

The structure and function
Loose. That’s how I’ll describe the structure. The function will be to help you learn how to be a better writer. How much you improve will totally depend on how seriously you take the course assignments. If I spot any emerging Hemignways or Kings, I’ll let you know. Most of us—including me—can only hope to become competent scribblers. With the exception of the necessity to schedule enough assignments on which to base your midterm grades, the semester will unfold by the somewhat flexible schedule that follows:

January 9 through April 28
• To include an overview of the stuff mentioned above and other pressing matters. Shorter paper and probably at least two of the response papers due. Overview of elements of poetry, short fiction and drama.

Most importantly during this period, we’ll read and DISCUSS works of short fiction, poetry and drama on the following themes (specific assignments to come):
• Literature on
  o Home and Family
  o Love and its Complications
  o The Natural World
  o Other Cultures
  o Work and Business
  o And more ...

January 16 – NO CLASS, MLK Jr.’s birthday
January 25 – FIRST RESPONSE
February 1 – NO CLASS
February 15 – SECOND RESPONSE DUE
February 17 – NO CLASS, Lincoln’s Birthday
February 22 – MIDTERM PROJECT (test or paper TBA) due
March 2 – MIDTERM
March 8 – THIRD RESPONSE PAPER DUE
March 13-17 – SPRING BREAK
March 29 – FOURTH RESPONSE PAPER DUE
April 12 – LAST RESPONSE PAPER DUE
April 17 – FINAL PAPER DUE
April 28 – LAST CLASS DAY
May 1-4 – FINALS WEEK (TIME & DAY OF FINAL EXAM TBA)

If you survived 1001G, you should be able to claim the same for this course. Do the assignments, hand them in on time, attend class regularly, listen closely, participate in discussions and you will succeed. Oh yeah. READ THIS SYLLABUS.
