ENGLISH 3704 – AMERICAN LITERATURE, 1950-PRESENT: 3 CR

Professor: Dr. Marjorie Worthington
Office: Coleman Hall 3321

Class: Coleman Hall 3609, MWF, 11:00-11:50pm
Office Hours: MWF 12:00pm-1:00pm or by appt.

COURSE DESCRIPTION: “Grotesque” literature has been defined as that which evokes both horror and humor, that which elicits both empathy and disgust. This literary category has existed for hundreds of years, but it is oddly appropriate for our contemporary moment: it is safe to say that we are living in grotesque times. As evidence, I point to phenomena like Breaking Bad, American Horror Story (empathy and disgust) and the Presidential Election competition (horror and humor). This course will explore some of those popular cultural texts along with a broad swath of literary examples of American grotesquerie.

NOTE: Not only does this course require a great deal of reading, but I also expect you to be active participants in discussion, not just by talking about the books we read, but about how the books we read connect to other aspects of contemporary American life.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES INCLUDE (BUT NOT LIMITED TO):

- To read, discuss and analyze representative texts of the late twentieth century to the present.
- To familiarize ourselves with differing critical and cultural stances on some of these works.
- To learn about and engage in literary research.
- To hone skills related to writing literary and cultural analyses.

TEXTS:
Vladimir Nabokov, Lolita
Shirley Jackson, We Have Always Lived in the Castle
Edward Albee, American Dream
Coleson Whitehead, Intuitionist
Katherine Dunn, Geek Love
Toni Morrison, A Mercy
Tim O’Brien, In the Lake of the Woods
Some short stories provided by email and/or D2L

ASSIGNMENTS:

NOTE: You must complete ALL assignments to pass this course. So, even if you could earn a passing grade numerically, you will not pass unless all assignments have been completed.

Short Essays: Over the course of the semester, you will write five, one-page, single-spaced, typed essays. They will cover the reading assigned for the particular day on which they are due. Notice that these are not “response papers” but ESSAYS; I don’t want to know how the reading makes you feel, but rather I want you to make a literary argument of some kind. So, although short, these essays should be focused and thesis-driven. It is my hope that these essays will: 1) help you keep up with the reading; 2) generate interesting ideas for discussion. For that reason, you must be in class and must contribute to class discussion that day in order to get credit for the essay; 3) help the other members of the class see what a good essay looks like, since you will be posting these essays in the Discussion section of D2L; and 4) help spur in-class discussion by beginning online ones, since part of your grade will involve responding to others’ essays in D2L.
Participation: This class is small. This means that it is impossible for you to hide behind your classmates when you haven’t done the reading or do not have anything to say. SOOOO, do the reading and have something to say. Every day. 10% of your final grade depends on it, as does the quality of the class. If you don’t contribute, this class will be boring as death. Part of this grade will also be determined by how well you contribute to the online discussions in D2L.

Grade Breakdown:

- 5 Short Essays 20% (4% each)
- Lolita Reception Analysis 20%
- Group Project on Pop Culture Grotesque 15%
- Textual Analysis Essay 20%
- Final Exam 10%
- Participation (includes in-class and online) 15%

POLICIES:

Attendance: Your consistent attendance and participation are necessary to make this class the vibrant exchange of ideas it should be and I take attendance every day (even if you do not see me doing it). You are permitted no more than three unexcused absences. Each unexcused absence after three will lower your final grade by thirty points (3%). Excused absences are accompanied by appropriate legal or medical documentation.

Office Hours: The hours listed above are times when I will be in my office ready to meet with students. You can also make a special appointment to see me if you are unable to come during office hours. I encourage you to come and talk to me about your work as often as you like.

Academic Integrity: Students are expected to maintain principles of academic integrity and conduct as defined in EIU’s Code of Conduct (http://www.eiu.edu/judicial/studentconductcode.php). Violations will be reported to the Office of Student Standards.

Plagiarism: Plagiarism is defined as appropriating words or ideas that are not your own without giving proper credit. The temptation to plagiarize can be great, particularly in the advent of extensive computer technology and the collaborative nature of our class. However, the consequences of plagiarism are dire and can result in a grade of F for the assignment and even for the course. It will also result in a report to the Judicial Affairs Office.

Students with Disabilities: If you are a student with a documented disability in need of accommodations to fully participate in this class, please contact the Office of Student Disability Services (OSDS). All accommodations must be approved through OSDS. Please stop by Ninth Street Hall, Room 2006, or call 217-581-6583 to make an appointment.

The Student Success Center: Students who are having difficulty achieving their academic goals are encouraged to contact the Student Success Center (www.eiu.edu/~success) for assistance with time management, test taking, note taking, avoiding procrastination, setting goals, and other skills to support academic achievement. The Student Success Center provides individualized consultations. To make an appointment, call 217-581-6696, or go to 9th Street Hall, Room 1302.
