REQUIREMENTS AND ASSIGNMENTS: There will be several written assignments required for this course. All of your written assignments must be word-processed unless otherwise stated. Assignments must be submitted, in their entirety, on the day they are due unless you have made prior arrangements with me.

Reading Quizzes: As often as necessary, you will be given quizzes on the reading at the beginning of class. These are designed solely to ensure that you keep up with what can be a challenging reading load. If you have done the reading carefully, the quizzes will be easy; if not, not. There will be no make-up quizzes given.

Midterm and Final Exams: These exams will cover purely factual information from the texts and class discussion and will also test your understanding of the work of this course and your ability to devise and explain your own ideas. In other words, there will be multiple-choice and short-answer questions and in-class essays on these exams.

Short Essays: Over the course of the semester, you will write four three-paragraph, typed essays. They will cover the reading assigned for the particular day on which they are due. Although short, these responses should be focused and thesis-driven. It is my hope that these papers will: 1) help you keep up with the reading; and 2) generate interesting ideas for discussion. For that reason, you must be in class and must contribute to class discussion that day in order to get credit for the response. You MUST COMPLETE ALL SHORT ESSAY ASSIGNMENTS TO PASS THIS COURSE.

Short Essay Groups (by last name):

Essay: Choose one (and only one) of your short essays and expand it into a longer (5-6-page) one. This assignment does NOT involve smushing together several of your responses into an unorganized essay. Rather, it asks you to take the ideas you touched upon in the short essay and delve more deeply into them, providing more evidence from the text to support them. It also asks you to construct a clear thesis statement that makes a general claim about the novel as a whole. We will discuss in class strategies for doing this well.
POLICIES:

Conferences: The hours listed above are times when I will be in my office ready to meet with students. You can also make a special appointment to see me if you are unable to come during office hours. I encourage you to come and talk to me about your work as often as you like.

Attendance: Your consistent attendance and participation are necessary to make this class the vibrant exchange of ideas it should be and I take attendance every day (even if you do not see me doing it). You are permitted no more than three unexcused absences. Each unexcused absence after three will lower your final grade by thirty points (3%). Excused absences are accompanied by appropriate legal or medical documentation.

Plagiarism: Plagiarism is defined as appropriating words or ideas that are not your own without giving proper credit. The temptation to plagiarize can be great, particularly in the advent of extensive computer technology and the collaborative nature of our class. However, the consequences of plagiarism are dire and can result in a grade of F for the assignment and even for the course. It will also result in a report to the Judicial Affairs Office.

Assignments and Grade Breakdown:
Discussion essays/Quizzes 30%
Essay 20%
Midterm Exam 25%
Final Exam 25%
