Course Description, Design, and Goals: English 2099G centers on literary representations of race, age, and gender, three important and often interrelated concepts in developing an understanding of the modern world. Besides requiring a commitment to the careful reading of difficult and challenging works, this course is also writing intensive. You will be asked to write in response to the assigned readings in class on a regular basis and will produce two longer essays out of class. The goal is to improve, with practice, our reading and thinking skills and to approach an understanding of how the concepts of race, age, and gender function in the works of several writers.

Texts: Hughes, The Big Sea
_____, The Collected Poems of Langston Hughes
Hurston, Their Eyes Were Watching God
Olsen, Tell Me a Riddle
Shakespeare, Othello; King Lear
Yezierska, Red Ribbon on a White Horse; Hungry Hearts

Requirements and Grading:
1) completion of two essays (minimum 1000 words each), one of which requires use of secondary sources – 30%
2) two exams – 30%
3) weekly in-class written responses to assigned readings – 30%
4) participation in class discussions of the assigned readings – 10%

You must complete all of the work above to pass the course.

You can be excused from but not make up in-class writing assignments.

Attendance at all class meetings is expected, but not required. In-class writing assignments are not announced.

This is a writing-intensive course. You may submit an essay from the class for your EWP. For more information, visit the assessment website: http://www.eiu.edu/~assess.
