Text: Understanding English Grammar (6th ed.), Martha Kolln and Robert Funk

Course Goals and Objectives: The essential goal of the course is for each student to master the fundamentals of English grammar -- the system behind the patterns of our language that give it meaning. We will not merely memorize rules of usage and grammar, for such memorization rarely leads to understanding the subject matter in any depth. Rather, our focus will be upon learning to analyze the structures in our language, to explain the logic (and occasional illogic) behind those structures, and to be able to identify and employ those structures with some proficiency. To this end, class lectures will provide numerous definitions, explanations, and examples to supplement the material from the text. Students will demonstrate their mastery of the principles and structures of grammar on their written working in various ways: by defining terms, explaining points of grammar and structure either in written form or in schemata, identifying structures, and employing those structures in their own writing. Being able to perform one of these tasks alone is insufficient because such performance does not constitute a clear and complete understanding of the material.

Requirements and Determination of Final Grade:

- 5% Attendance and Participation
- 60% Hour Exams (4 exams, 15% each)
- 20% Final Exam
- 15% Quizzes

Attendance and Participation: Essentially this grade is determined by your preparation for and participation in class discussions. While you need not jump to the fore at every opportunity, you should always be prepared to answer--and especially to ask--questions over the material for the day. Because you will be performing in-class exercises, taking unannounced quizzes, and occasionally completing other impromptu work, attendance is mandatory.
Hour Exams: Primarily the four hour exams will be comprised of short answer, definition, and identification/explanation questions. Essentially, the exams ask you to identify, define, explain, and employ various grammatical forms. By showing that you can perform all these tasks, you show that you have mastered the material and have met the course objectives.

Final Exam: The final exam will be partly comprehensive, but it will follow the format of the hour exams.

Quizzes: Quizzes are usually short exercises or short-answer questions given unannounced in class or assigned as take-home work. Each quiz is worth 10 points. We will complete approximately 12 quizzes during the semester. The quiz scores are totaled (usually I drop one or two quiz scores), and a single grade is given for that total worth 15% of the semester grade.

Absences: No make-up work will be accepted unless I am made aware of some documented, compelling condition (illness, personal emergency) forcing your absence. All make-up work must be completed within one week of your return to class.

A Final Note: I encourage students to work together, even on take-home assignments. Often students will find one member of a group proficient in one area, a second proficient in another, and so on. The students thus learn from the strengths of one another. Moreover, a student with abilities in one area finds that he or she further sharpens those abilities when explaining them to another student. Not all students will find the explanations of other students always sufficient, however. Thus, I encourage you to come by my office as often as you wish, alone or in groups, for further help. I should caution you that learning grammar is a cumulative exercise. You should not wait until late in the term to come in to tell me you are “lost.”

TEXT

Our facher which art in heauen, hallowed be thy name.
Thy kingdome come. Thy will be done, in earth, as it is in heauen.
Giue us this day our daily bread.
And forgiiue us our debts, as we forgiiue our debters.
And lead us not into temptation,
but deliuer us from euill: For chine is the kingdome, and the power, and the glory, for euer. Amen.
